

SUICIDE LEAVES SEVEN ORPHANS.

Mother Drowned Herself and Brave Girl of Sixteen Will Care for Six Little Brothers and Sisters.

WILL BE DISPOSSESSED.

Woman Was Insured for $54, But All but $2 of This Will Be Used with Which to Pay Her Funeral Expenses.

Brave little Martha McKay, of No. 307 East One Hundred and Fifth street, whose mother committed suicide by jumping into the river near her home, is striving hard to keep together her six brothers and sisters who have been left to her care. This little miss, who is but sixteen, has made the arrangements for the funeral, and to-day she was busy caring for the other members of the family. They are, Andrew, fourteen; Kittie, twelve; Walter, nine; Henry, eight; Annie, four, and Minnie, less than two.

Martha works as a packer in a candy factory at $3 a week, and this is all that the children now have to keep them alive. The little "mother" was seen at her home to-day. Through the kindness of neighbors sufficient food for the day had been sent in and Martha had marshaled them at breakfast.

"It is awfully hard to do much with the little ones," she said. "They can't understand what has happened and they will be noisy. The fact that mother is dead in the front room doesn't mean much to them."

Has Sent for Her Aunt. "What am I going to do? I don't know. I have telegraphed to my aunt, Della Gamble, in Philadelphia, asking her to come here and help me. If she doesn't take time to come to me, I am afraid they will have to go to the Children's Society. I don't see how I can keep them together."

"One good thing is that we have money enough to bury mother. Before father died of consumption, seven months ago, we had her insured herself for $100, but as she wasn't in a year we will get only $51. Out of this we will have $2 left for food after paying the undertaker."

Will Be Dispossessed. The rooms in which the children live are barely furnished. In the front room, where the corpse of the mother is waiting for the funeral, there is no carpet and but a few poor chairs. There is a small table, but no curtains at the windows. To make matters worse, a dispossession notice has been served upon the children, and they will have to move as soon as their mother's body is taken away. The police have told them that they can stay in the room until then, but long.

Coroner's Physician O'Hanlon has interested himself in the case. He has sent to view the body and told the oldest boy, Andrew, that he would find him a good place in a downtown store. There he will be able to earn enough to keep himself.

SENT LOVE STORIES TO SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

Woman Librarian, It Is Alleged, Used No Discretion in Giving Out Volumes.

Mrs. Mary E. Cragie is studying the charges made against her by Frank Hill, librarian of Brooklyn. She refuses to discuss them until after the hearing to-night.

Mr. Hill alleges that Mrs. Cragie was slightly warped in her literary judgment, and that as assistant in charge of the travelling libraries of the Public Library of Brooklyn, she failed to exercise discretion in selecting books to be sent out.

For example, he says, she sent a copy of Laurence Sterne's "Sentimental Journey" to a Methodist Sunday-school, and that when the St. Malachi Catholic Club asked for bread she gave them a stone in the shape of "Gates Ajar," a pronounced Protestant publication.

That she was not "playing favorites" was shown when she forwarded "The Vestal" by La Grange, to a Protestant church. Her final error, says Mr. Hill, came when she furnished "History of the Republican Party" and "History of the American Revolution" in response to a request for German literature.

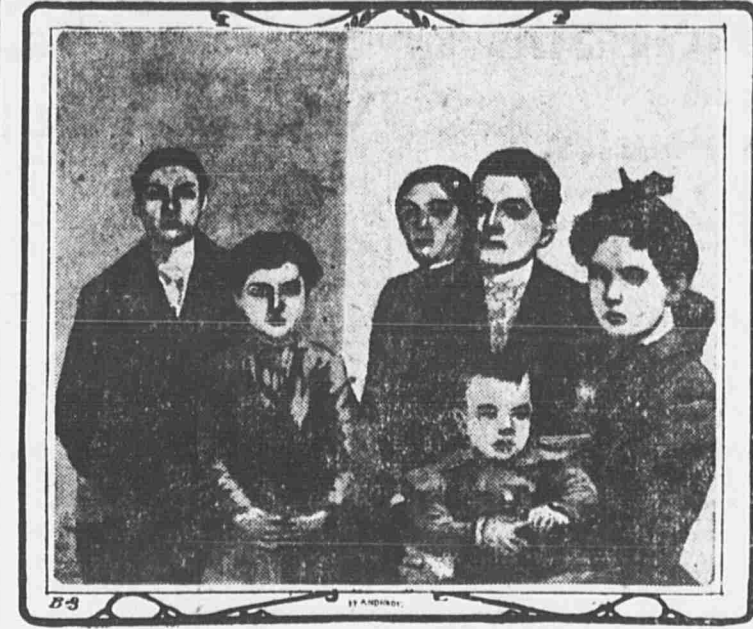

It also is intimated that she failed to check and invoice books purchased in July, 1901, until the following December.

POSED AS A PRIEST. Alleged Imposter in Clerical Garb Arrested in Brooklyn.

For trying to pose as a priest and thus solicit subscriptions for a publication called the "Ave Maria," John F. McCoy, of No. 13 Concord street, Brooklyn, was arrested and taken to the Fulton street police station on a charge of having swindled a number of priests and women in that borough.

When McCoy, dressed as a priest, called on Mary Gillen, at No. 15 Concord street, to ask her to subscribe for the paper she was prepared for him, having been warned that he was an imposter, so she sent one of her children to Father Farrell, pastor of St. James's Pro-Cathedral, in Jay street. The priest easily identified McCoy as the man who had once swindled him, and calling a policeman, had him arrested.

PURSUED BRITISH BOY OF TEN YEARS SAFE IN BERBERA. CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Wayne's Harassed Command Successfully Eludes Mad Mullah in Long Flight to Safety.

ADEN, Arabia, Oct. 30.—Col. Wayne, the British Commissioner in Somaliland, and his command have reached Berbera in safety. His wounded are doing well. No further movement of the British troops against the Mullah will be made until a large force is collected, which will be in about two months' time.

There is no doubt that the Somali levies showed the white feather in the recent fighting with the Mullah's followers.

Col. Cobbe is in command at Bohotle, Somaliland, where the guns have arrived. The garrison there is not threatened.

James F. Gibson, ten years old, of No. 577 Ninth avenue, was run over and crushed to death by a Dodd's Express Company wagon in front of No. 412 West Fortieth street. He was an only son and his mother became hysterical on hearing of the accident.

The boy was playing when he darted across the street directly in front of a wagon driven by Charles Sims, of No. 238 West Thirty-fifth street. The man could not pull up the horses in time to save the boy from being knocked down. Two wheels passed over his chest. His ribs were crushed and Dr. Whitebeck, of Roosevelt Hospital, who was summoned, said the boy died from internal hemorrhage. Sims was arrested.

EXHIBITION MADE $10,000. Professional Women Deny Quarrel Over the Results.

Reports of dissatisfaction in the Professional Woman's League over meagre returns from the Women's Exhibition were hotly denied by officers of that organization. The exact profits, over and above all expenses, after the return of the $15,000 which the league advanced as a sinking fund, together with a like amount from Manager William A. Brady when the scheme started, are $10,000. This will be divided between the league and Manager Brady.

Prof. Robert Koch at the Tuberculosis Congress Which Has Just Closed at Berlin.

Professor Koch explained very satisfactorily that if the poisonous germs entered the system through the lungs, they would be destroyed by the action of the lungs. Here they terminate and multiply if the tubes are filled with catarrhal mucus, which they feed on. If mucus is present they die and no further results are shown in the system. If the catarrhal mucus is present in abundance the germs grow and multiply rapidly and are absorbed into the system, causing a general infection, which is followed by all the later symptoms of consumption, such as cough, pain in chest, sick stomach, etc.

Koch's treatment is at 113 WEST 22D ST., where patients are cured daily. The mucus of having catarrh for years a "hotbed" for germs to grow should not be made. The head should be cleared daily with KOCH-O-LANE to dissolve and destroy any germs that might be in the respiratory tract, which might be absorbed into the system. Free examinations are made daily by a skillful physician at DR. KOCH'S SANITARIUM, Incorporated, 113 WEST 22D ST., next to Ehrlich's Store, N. Y.

LITTLE GIRL DYING OF TERRIBLE BURNS

She Played with Matches While Mother Was Away and Dress Caught Fire.

Little Fannie Segar, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Segar, of No. 2174 Third avenue, lies at the point of death in Harlem Hospital, suffering terribly from burns received while playing with matches. The child's frantic mother is watching at the bedside.

Adolph Segar runs two newsstands, one at Third avenue and One Hundred and Eighteenth street and the other at the block north, at One Hundred and Nineteenth street. The father was tending the upper stand this morning and Herman Olson, a fourteen-year-old boy, who lives at the Segar home, was at the lower.

The boy was relayed by Mrs. Segar and he went to the house, where Fannie and her baby brother were alone. Herman cooked his breakfast on the gas stove, throwing a handful of matches on the kitchen table. When he finished his meal he left the house and went back to the newsstand. The mother, returning home, hastened her steps when she heard her child crying in terror.

"Mamma! mamma! mamma!" shrieked the child in terror as she ran into the hallway to meet her mother.

Mrs. Segar took in the situation at a glance, and running into the bedroom snatched the clothing from the bed. Little Fannie was soon wrapped in blankets, but not before nearly all her clothing had been burned away. Neighbors rushed in and put out the fire in the kitchen.

The child had played with the matches and tried to light the gas-burner on the stove. Instead she set to her own dress and the tablecloth. Physicians at the hospital say the child cannot live.

WOULDN'T TELL WHO HAD SCALED HER.

Servant Girl Taken from the New York Club Painfully Injured.

The police are puzzled over the case of Annie Gilpin, a servant at the New York Club, Fifth avenue and Thirty-fifth street, who lies at the Bellevue Hospital with her face and hands frightfully scalded.

Miss Gilpin was taken to the hospital in a carriage. She was accompanied by Mary Murphy, also a servant at the New York Club. When the women stepped from the carriage Miss Gilpin's face and hands were wrapped in bandages and she was in great pain.

To the physicians and nurses the injured woman was silent and Mary Murphy left the hospital without telling anything. Miss Gilpin was put in the accident ward, where she was soon visited by a policeman from the West Thirtieth street police station. When he left she said she had accused another servant at the New York Club of scalding her, but she would not say who did it. At the New York Club it was claimed that no details were known. It was denied that there had been any trouble.

Save a Hundred Dollars By Buying Your Angelus Today

We have thirty-four Angelus Piano Players in models which we have discontinued. They are styles that have been selling at regular prices until today; but some have been used a little in demonstrating—a half-dozen were taken in exchange for newer models. All have the unmatched capabilities of producing music of the most artistic character. Any one of them will give the powers of a virtuoso to its possessor.

The first day you own an Angelus you will be able to play your piano in a manner to delight yourself and your family. But the real virtue of the Angelus is the possibility of improvement that comes with weeks and months, as you grow familiar with the powers which it places in your hands—powers of "life and soul," Mascagni calls them—possessed by no other piano-player ever produced.

The bellows of the Angelus has a quick exhaust which enables you to follow strong notes with the soft touches impossible to all other instruments. The Angelus gives the absolute finger effects, while all others produce a mechanical effect, impossible to avoid.

The marvellous Angelus powers are in each of the instruments offered today, though style-changes at the factory make it desirable for us to close out instruments on hand.

The Saving to You Is Enormous. Certainly no home that possesses a piano, and loves music, should be without the one instrument that gives life and soul to the piano, when it costs so little to secure an Angelus as it will for the thirty-four fortunate homes that secure these remarkable offerings today.
